ABSTRACT

This is a revised version of a 1969 bibliography dealing with the characteristics of the market system serving low-income consumers, with programs designed to improve the market system and with problems in low income marketing. This version contains 326 classified, annotated entries. The bibliography covers the following major areas: (1) characteristics and buying practices of low-income consumers, (2) characteristics and practices of commercial enterprises which serve low-income consumers, (3) conflicts and problems in low-income markets, and (5) programs and potential solutions for solving the problems. Another major area includes miscellaneous entries. Each section is cross-referenced. (Author/AM)

INTRODUCTION TO THE REVISED EDITION

The need for information on the general subject of marketing and low-income consumers became apparent in the early work of the Task Force on Marketing and the Low-Income Consumer (originally named the Task Force on Commercial Services to Low-Income Urban Areas), established by the Secretary of Commerce's National Marketing Advisory Committee. Accordingly, a Clearinghouse was established at the University of Minnesota in early 1968. Interested parties contributed references to the Clearinghouse, and from these many contributions five separate bibliographies were prepared for limited distribution.

Since the need for facts about marketing and low-income consumers proved to be so extensive, the United States Department of Commerce arranged for the consolidation and annotation of a single bibliography containing the most important materials available. The first bibliography Bibliography on Marketing to Low-Income Consumers, published in January, 1969, contained 236 separate entries which were classified into five major sections. The test for inclusion was whether or not the reference dealt with some aspect of marketing and low-income consumers.

The Revised Bibliography, Marketing and the Low-Income Consumer, contains 326 entries, classified the same way as those in the original bibliography. Included are materials dealing with the characteristics of the market system serving low-income consumers and with programs designed to improve the market system. Problems encountered in low-income marketing are also included.

Some materials have been excluded because the editors could not find complete references; and, undoubtedly, there have also been accidental omissions. For these omissions and for errors in the bibliography, the editors accept responsibility.

The Department, Dr. Robert J. Holloway and the NMAC Task Force have agreed to transfer the Clearinghouse from the University of Minnesota to the Small Business Guidance and Development Center, School of Business and Public Administration, Howard University, Washington, D.C. The materials collected by the Clearinghouse are of equal interest to those using ACCESSIONS, the Center's free monthly publication.

Those who have appropriate material are urged to send them to Librarian, Business Library, School of Business and Public Administration, Howard University, Washington, D.C. 20001. The Center will annotate such materials in ACCESSIONS and in future editions of the Center's bibliography.

It is the expressed hope of the Task Force that Universities throughout the country will use these Bibliographies and ACCESSIONS to build their own libraries on this important subject matter.

Graduate students at the University of Minnesota were responsible for preparing most of the entries. These students were: Richard K. Allendorf, James W. Cagley, Amin F. Eldirghami, Robert N. Fiske and Hugh Willemse. Mary Jo Loso typed the entire manuscript. The publication of this Bibliography was coordinated in the Marketing and Consumer Affairs Division, Office of Domestic Business Policy, Bureau of Domestic Commerce, U.S. Department of Commerce. To these persons, to the NMAC Task Force Members, and to all those who contributed reference items and in other ways encouraged the project, we express our appreciation.

Differences in consumption behavior associated with race and income. Background information within an analytical framework.

35. CONSUMPTION PATTERN DIFFERENCES BETWEEN URBAN WHITES AND NEGROES. James Stafford, Keith Cox, and James Higginbotham. Social Science Quarterly, Vol. 49, December 1968. Social Science Quarterly, University of Texas at Austin, Austin, Tex. 78712.

36. CONTRASTS IN SPENDING BY URBAN FAMILIES: PART I. Kathryn R. Murphy. Monthly Labor Review, Vol 87, November 1964, pp. 1249-1253. U.S. Dept. of Labor, Bur. of Labor Statistics. (out of print)

Broad trends since 1950 in the income, spending, and saving of urban families as a whole are analyzed in Part I.

37. CONTRASTS IN SPENDING BY URBAN FAMILIES: PART II. Kathryn R. Murphy. Monthly Labor Review, Vol 87, December 1964, pp. 1408-1415. U.S. Dept. of Labor, Bur. of Labor Statistics. (out of print)

Variations in 1960-61 consumption patterns of urban families grouped by income and other characteristics are examined in this second part.

38. THE CULTURE OF POVERTY. Oscar Lewis. Scientific American, Vol. 215, October 1966, pp. 19-25. Scientific American, 415 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y. 10017.

A study of poverty among people in Puerto Rico and New York. Basic probe into causes of poverty. Impact of environment is considered.

39. DARK GHETTO: DILEMMAS OF SOCIAL POWER. Kenneth B. Clark. 1965. Harper & Row Publishers, 49 East 33rd St., New York, N. Y. 10016. 251 p. $1.75.

A diagnosis of our ghetto problems, their social consequences, and what Americans must do to deal with them.

40. DESPITE INTEGRATION, NEGRO IS SEPARATE MARKET, GRAYSON SAYS. Advertising Age, Vol. 34, June 3, 1963, p. 104. Advertising Age, 740 Rush St., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Advice for advertisers to key their media expenditures to the "distinctive" Negro market.

41. DIETARY LEVELS OF HOUSEHOLDS IN THE UNITED STATES, SPRING 1965. January 1968 (preliminary report). (ARS 62-17) U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. Agricultural Research Service, Federal Central Building, Hyattsville, Md. 20782. 34 p. Free. (out of print)

This is a preliminary report of a series which will cover average nutritive value of food used at home; percentages of households reaching specified levels of each nutrient, the nutrient contribution of selected groups of foods, and the average quantity, money value, and percentage of households using selected foods arranged in nutritionally meaningful groups.

42. DIMENSIONS OF POVERTY IN 1964. October 1965, revised December 1965. Office of Economic Opportunity, Washington, D.C. 20506. (out of print)

This is an interim description of the poor by age, sex, and location, based upon the March 1965, national population survey by the U.S. Bureau of the Census of families and unrelated individuals at all income levels.

43. AN ECONOMIC DEFINITION OF POVERTY. Harold W. Watts. May 1967. Institute for Research on Poverty, The University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis. 53706. 19 p.

This economic treatise is needed in the author's opinion to narrow down the scope of our thinking and provide a consistent criteria in evaluating success.

44. ECONOMIC TRENDS IN THE NEGRO MARKET. Andrew F. Brimmer. Marketing Information Guide, Vol. 11, No. 5, May 1964. Address before the 11th Annual Conference of National Association of Market Developers. (out of print)

A study of the Negro market with tabular presentations covering the decennial census period 1950-60. Analyzes comparative changes in the patterns of consumer expenditures and structure of employment and income of the Negro-white population in the U.S. Discusses shifting patterns of outlays by Negro families for housing, education, personal care, purchase of automobiles, and consumption of alcoholic beverages.

45. THE ECONOMICS OF DISCRIMINATION. Garry S. Becker. 1957. University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60637. 137 p. $3.50.

The author develops a theory of discrimination in the market place that supplements the psychologists'-sociologists' analysis of causes with an analysis of economic consequences.

46. THE ECONOMICS OF POVERTY. Alan B. Batchelder. 1966. John Wiley & Sons, Inc., 605 Third Ave., New York, N. Y. 10016. 214 p. $1.95.

This book presents an economic analysis of poverty in the U.S. It does not deal specifically with the low-income consumer, but does provide a useful framework for analysis and a good bibliography.

- * 47. THE EFFECT OF CULTURAL INFLUENCES ON THE MEXICAN-AMERICAN CONSUMERS. Richard B. Wald. San Jose State College, School of Business Administration, San Jose, California 95114.

A comparative study of the buyer behavior of Mexican-Americans, clarifying cultural differences existing between Mexican-Americans and non-Mexican-Americans.

48. EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING TO THE NEGRO MARKET. George F. Goebeler. Master of Business Administration Thesis (unpublished), 1965. Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pa. 19104.

49. EFFECTS OF INCOME UPON SHOPPING ATTITUDES AND FRUSTRATIONS. Charles J. Colazza, Jr. Journal of Retailing, Vol. 42, Spring, 1966, pp. 1-7. Journal of Retailing, School of Retailing, New York University, New York, N. Y. 10003.

The consumer becomes a more discriminating and particular (mature) shopper as average income increases. The maturity makes it necessary for manufacturers and retailers to determine precisely what the consumer needs and wants which in effect brings more satisfaction to the consumer.

50. AN EMPIRICAL INVESTIGATION OF FAMILY EXPENDITURES AND SHOPPING BEHAVIOR FOR FOOD AS AFFECTED BY SOCIO-ECONOMIC AND DEMOGRAPHIC VARIABLES. Marcus Alexis, Leonard S. Simon and Kenneth Smith. October 1965. College of Business Administration, University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y. 14627. 23 p.

A paper presented at the Eastern Meeting, The Institute of Management Sciences, dealing with buying behavior.

51. AN EXAMINATION OF RACE AS A FACTOR IN NEGRO-WHITE CONSUMPTION PATTERNS. B. E. Sawyer. Review of Economics and Statistics, Vol. 44, May 1962, pp. 217-220. Review of Economics and Statistics, 232 Littauer Center, Cambridge, Mass. 02138.

Empirical study that refutes the theory that at any given income level, Negroes spend less on consumption than whites.

52. EXPENDITURE PATTERNS OF LOW-CONSUMPTION FAMILIES. July 1965. (BLS Report 228-10) U.S. Dept. of Labor, Bur. of Labor Statistics. 20 p. (out of print)

This report presents a tabulation and analysis of expenditure data for evaluating the level and standard of living of various groups in the population--especially the poor.

- * 53. AN EXPLORATORY ANALYSIS OF COMPARATIVE PERCEPTIONS OF RETAIL FOOD BY GHETTO AND NON-GHETTO RESIDENTS. Gerald E. Hills. (Doctoral Thesis, Forthcoming) Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana 47401.

- * 54. A FACTOR ANALYTIC STUDY OF NEGRO AND WHITE RESPONSES TO ADVERTISING STIMULI. Arnold M. Barban and John E. Muthard. Journal of Applied Psychology, Vol. 49, No. 4, August 1965, pp. 275-279. Journal of Applied Psychology, American Psychological Association, 1200 Seventeenth St., N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

A report on the development of a method to measure group reactions to advertising and mass media concepts.

- * 55. FAMILY ADJUSTMENT IN SELECTED LOW-INCOME AREAS OF NORTHERN WISCONSIN. D. G. Marshall, Hazel Reinhardt, Joan Keyes, and Terry Marshall. 1967. Institute for Research on Poverty, The University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin 53706. 49 p. (Appendix, 12 p.)

This study, conducted in 1967 in Burnett and Forest Counties, attempts to show the present situation of residents of the area, the attitudes of these residents toward some of the federal and state agencies working in their counties, and their analyses of the problems, prospects and people of their counties.

- * 56. FOOD BUYING BEHAVIOR OF LOW INCOME NEGROES: AN EMPIRICAL STUDY. Charles Stanley Madden, 1970. Unpublished Master of Arts Thesis, on deposit in the Commerce Library of the Graduate School of Business of the University of Alabama. Graduate School of Business, University of Alabama, University, Ala. 35486.

57. FOOD CONSUMPTION AND DIETARY LEVELS OF OLDER HOUSEHOLDS IN ROCHESTER, NEW YORK. Carinne LeBovit and Dorothy A. Baker. February 1965. (Home Economics Research Report No. 25) U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. Consumer and Food Economics Research Division, Agricultural Research Service, Federal Central Building, Hyattsville, Md. 20782. 91 p. Free. (out of print)

Results of a food consumption survey of a selected group of beneficiaries of Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance. Analysis of factors affecting dietary adequacy includes expenditures for food.

58. FOOD CONSUMPTION OF HOUSEHOLDS IN THE UNITED STATES SPRING 1965. 1968 (preliminary report). (ARS 62-17) U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. Agricultural Research, Federal Central Building, Hyattsville, Md. 20782. 212 p. (out of print)

First of the series on food consumption. Reports quantity, money value, and percentage of households using major groups, subgroups, and individual items of food. All tables by income groups. Separate tables for rural farm, rural non-farm, and urban families. Forthcoming reports will report all data by regions.

186. NEGRO'S FORCE IN THE MARKET PLACE. Business Week, May 26, 1962, pp. 76-84. McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., Inc. 330 West 42nd St., New York, N. Y. 10036.

Increases in both numbers and income make Negroes an important sales target. However, companies differ over whether special approaches are needed to sell them.

- * 187. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING AND THE NEGRO MARKET. John V. Petrof. Journal of Retailing, Vol. 46, Spring 1970, pp. 20-31. Journal of Retailing, New York University, 432 Commerce Building, Washington Square, New York, N. Y. 10003. $2.00

A study attempting to determine the difference in awareness created among black consumers when two advertisements, one by an institution patronized primarily by blacks and the other by a firm catering to both races, are presented through a Negro and a general readership newspaper.

188. ORGANIZATION AND COMPETITION IN FOOD RETAILING. See chapter "Prices and Margins in Different Income Areas." National Commission on Food Marketing. June 1966. pp. 335-342. U.S. Dept. of Labor, Bur. of Labor Statistics. GPO. $1.50.

This chapter is directed to an analysis of food retailing in poorer urban communities, generally confined to the central city (data on family income from the 1960 census of population).

189. THE OTHER SIDE OF THE POVERTY PROBLEM. David Caplovitz. Challenge Magazine, Vol. 14, September-October 1965, pp. 12-15. Challenge Magazine, 475 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10017.

This article points to the unscrupulous methods used by many merchants in their dealings with the legally naive poor. The author's conclusion is that there is a clear need for legal safeguards to supplement poverty programs.

190. THE POOR PAY MORE. David Caplovitz. 1967. The Free Press, 866 Third Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10022. $1.95.

A study of a group of low-income families in four New York City housing projects. This book discusses buying patterns, price patterns, credit patterns, family finances, problems of the low-income consumer, practices of merchants, and proposals for dealing with the problems.

191. POVERTY, MINORITIES, AND CONSUMER EXPLOITATION. Frederick D. Sturdivant and Walter T. Wilhelm. Social Science Quarterly, Vol. 49, No. 3, December 1968, pp. 643-650. Social Science Quarterly, The Southwestern Social Science Association at the University of Texas at Austin, Austin, Texas 78712. $1.75.

The research question of the study was, "Is exploitation in the market place a function of low income or minority status?" The findings indicate that the disadvantaged are subject to economic exploitation within and beyond the boundaries of the ghetto. However, it was concluded that they pay more in the ghetto.

192. PRICES IN POOR NEIGHBORHOODS. Phyllis Groom. Monthly Labor Review, Vol. 89, October 1966, pp. 1085-1090. U.S. Dept. of Labor, Bur. of Labor Statistics.

The author's findings are based on three surveys made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The author includes conclusions that poor families get poorer housing for equivalent payment; food prices are higher because small independent stores are common in poor areas; and prices of non-food items for the poor are higher for some and lower for others.

193. RETAILING IN LOW-INCOME AREAS. Real Estate Research Corporation. August 1967. Chicago Small Business Opportunities Corporation, 343 South Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60604. 107 p. $5.00.

A look into the retail shopping habits of Chicago's poor. Contains contrasts with higher income shoppers, as well as a recommendations section. Analysis of retail structure also included.

194. RIOT PERIL. The Journal of Insurance, Vol. 28, November-December 1967, pp. 13-36. The Journal of Insurance, 112 East Washington, Bloomington, Ill. 61701.

An analysis of riots from an insurance point of view.

- * 195. ROLE OF WHITE-OWNED BUSINESSES IN THE INNER CITY. Fred C. Allvine and Alvin D. Star. This paper was prepared for the Inner City Marketing Conference which was held at the State University of Buffalo from June 4-6, 1970. Since this is a Working Paper, it is not to be quoted or reproduced without the authors' permission.

Minority group communities. Retailers and manufacturers. Changes in roles.

- * 196. SIMILARITY OF GHETTO AND NONGHETTO FOOD COSTS. Burton H. Marcus, Journal of Marketing Research, Vol. 6, August 1969, pp. 365-368. Journal of Marketing Research, American Marketing Association, 230 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill. 60601.

The objective of this research was to determine if ghetto dwellers paid more than more affluent nonghetto shoppers for comparable foodstuffs. This study points to the conclusion that the poor do pay more. The degree to which ghetto dwellers pay more, the market basket used to determine relative costs, the reasons for price differentials, and consumer shopping behavior should be considered in evaluating the findings.

- 197. SOFT DRINKS EARN ETHNIC MARKET SALES. Grocery Mfr., December 1967, pp. 25-28. Grocery Mfr. 420 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10017.

Pioneering efforts by cola companies are reflected in market shares. Community work and public relations figure in campaigns which are tailored to the specific market.

- 198. SOME EXPANSION POLICIES FAVOR LOW INCOME AREA. Supermarket News, February 7, 1966, p. 1. Supermarket News, 7 East 12th St., New York, N. Y. 10003.

A roundup of opinions of super market operators in seven cities about the operation of stores in low-income neighborhoods.
